I can't believe it has been a year since I joined the SoHumane team! My friends and family know that being here has been a dream come true for me. I have learned so much about SoHumane and the generosity of our community. It's been a year filled with many emotions. I never knew that working so hard could be so much fun! We've been busy with many things including fundraising, adoptions and a fantastic facelift of our campus just to mention a few.

The last year has been filled with overwhelming joy and sadness all at the same time.

There is no greater joy than seeing an adopted animal on its way to a new home. I have to stop myself from running out into the parking lot every time I see a family leaving with a pet they have just adopted.

When the Saving Train arrives it is heartbreaking to see the frightened animals, but joyful knowing that at SoHumane they are safe for as long as it takes for them to find a new home. While they are here they are loved and well cared for.

When I think of my time here I feel gratitude. I am so incredibly grateful to be here every day. I recently heard that feeling gratitude and not expressing it is like wrapping a gift and not giving it. I want to take this opportunity to say thank you, to SoHumane supporters, adopters, volunteers and staff, for making SoHumane such a wonderful resource for pets and people in need.

SoHumane faces many challenges. There is still so much to do for homeless dogs and cats. With your support, we have hope and determination!

All my best,

Karen Evans, Interim Executive Director

Putting a New Face on a Place That Matters

If you haven't been to our campus for a visit in a while, it's time for you to stop by! You won't believe all of the wonderful changes that have been made thanks to the Medford Chamber Leadership Class and our generous community. Because we work with limited resources, our focus is always on taking care of the animals so our campus was looking a little shabby.

We were delighted to learn that the Chamber Leadership Class chose SoHumane as its community service project. The theme of the project was "Putting a New Face on a Place that Matters," and the class raised over $50,000 in cash and in-kind donations for the renovations.

Our worn-out, 88-year-old building received more than just a new face. Our parking lot was regraded, broken concrete was removed and re-poured, and all of the buildings received a fresh coat of paint just to name a few of the improvements. Our memorial garden and front entry have stunning new designs as well.

All of us at SoHumane are thrilled with the beautiful updates! We finally feel like the outside of our campus reflects the quality of care the dogs and cats receive while they are here. Thank you from the bottom of our hearts to everyone who participated and gave so generously to the project. — Karen Evans

Play Time, Fun Time

Kailani Miranda

Dogs love to play. The SoHumane play group program provides regular supervised fun for large and small dogs. Thirty minutes in a play group is equivalent to a two-hour leash walk. Introduced by Aimee Sadler of Dogs Playing for Life, play groups now provide exercise, socialization, enrichment, better behavior assessments and training opportunities at SoHumane.

Dogs in shelters often become stressed when separated from other dogs. As frustration builds, some dogs become reactive in the kennels. Before SoHumane began a play group program, some dog behaviors may have been misinterpreted and labeled as “dog aggressive.” Using play groups, staff can more accurately assess individual dogs, reduce their stress levels and create successful social interactions with other dogs.

Justin, a 1½ year old boxer mix, arrived at SoHumane on the Saving Train. He initially had a very difficult time being around other dogs which decreased his adoptability. By having Justin participate in play group, staff could safely introduce him to other dogs and implement a behavior modification program. Justin can now play with several dogs at a time. He is learning to make good decisions. Play group has allowed Justin to enjoy the company of other dogs and has improved his adoption opportunities.

The new play group program provides a better quality of life for dogs in the SoHumane facility. Staff and volunteers have the opportunity to learn about dog social interactions and receive leash handling/training. This increases our ability to help potential adopters find pets that best fit in their families.

SoHumane volunteer Lynn McBee wrote, “It has been amazing for me to be involved in play groups. To observe a dog in the kennel with high stress and anxiety, then go into a play group and relax, run and play like dogs do is a wonderful sight! My hope is that all shelters are able to incorporate this as part of the staff and volunteers daily duties to relieve the stress of shelter life.”

Play groups provide exercise, socialization and enrichment breaks for dogs at SoHumane. Relaxed, happy dogs mean successful adoptions.

Training course required for all SoHumane volunteers. Make a difference in the lives of homeless pets!

One Volunteer's Journey

Judi Hanstein, Volunteer Coordinator

All SoHumane volunteers complete a series of orientation and safety training classes. The first class includes a tour of the SoHumane campus and learning about SoHumane as an organization. A safety training class comes next. Volunteers will learn safe practices at the shelter and gain an understanding of animal language. Being able to tell the difference between a stressed or frightened animal helps make that animal's adjustment to shelter life easier. The final step in training is "hands on with the animal". This can include moving around the shelter with a dog on a leash or playing with a cat on the floor. All three steps are required to educate a new volunteer to the everyday activities of the SoHumane team.

Nine years ago a young girl with a passion for animals began her volunteer journey at SoHumane. Here is her story:

While the Southern Oregon Humane Society may appear as an animal shelter to the public, it remains to me, a second family. My time with SoHumane began just after my ninth birthday, when my mom and I joined an early volunteer program called Puppy Team, in which we dedicated an hour every week to snuggling with adorable pint-sized puppies. My mom and I soon proceeded to Pet Partners, where we cooperatively led dogs into and out of play yards to provide them with human socialization.

As I grew older, our volunteer coordinator, Judi Hanstein, recognized my passion for dog handling and encouraged me to progress through the different volunteer programs at an accelerated pace. I spent several months taking out the house-trained dogs as a House-Trainer. When I proved ready, Judi transitioned me to the PALS program. In PALS, a student is assigned a specific dog to train and spend quality time with in order to improve the animal's adoptability. Shortly after joining PALS, I also received my Agility and Dog Handler privileges—allowing me to work with more challenging dogs and to serve as a leader to other volunteers.

Volunteering at SoHumane from a young age fostered my growth as a leader. Rather than simply barking orders, I learned that leadership is most effective when I choose to get my hands dirty and serve. However, this quality did not develop by my own doing. I owe my leadership skills to both the volunteers and staff at SoHumane. By providing opportunities to lead through service—for example, by assigning harder-to-handle dogs to me or allowing me to facilitate the SOU Vet Med summer youth camp—the SoHumane members created an environment in which I could absorb their exemplary skills and compassionate hearts.

Madi & Oceana

I feel valued by this fantastic group of people, and constantly encouraged by their love for our furry friends. My family and experiences at SoHumane ultimately formed me into a student leader ready to serve the world.

How to Give Back at Lower Cost to You

Nagel & Padilla, LLC, Mike Seifert, LTP

If you can't afford to donate to your favorite charity, or if you want to give something other than money, there are many other ways you can contribute. Regardless of how you want to help, any support received by SoHumane is greatly appreciated. In addition to donating cash to qualified charities, non-cash contributions and some unreimbursed volunteer expenses may qualify for a tax deduction. Of course, you should consult your professional tax advisor before deducting non-cash contributions and volunteer expenses.

How Non-Cash Charitable Contributions work for SoHumane:

SoHumane's adoptable pets always have needs for gently used dog beds, leashes, collars, toys, and etc. In addition, SoHumane accepts pet food, cat litter, and laundry supplies. If you want to put these unused items to good use consider donating them to SoHumane, as a bonus, you may receive a tax deduction.

How Non-Cash Charitable Contributions Work for You:

The IRS allows you to deduct the "fair market value" of items donated to a qualified charity. "Fair market value" is the price the item would sell for on the open market.

A qualified charity is a non-profit that is recognized as such by the IRS, as SoHumane is. The easiest way to obtain this information is simply to ask the organization. If they cannot provide that information you can visit this website to find out if your favorite organization qualifies: www.doj.state.or.us/charigroup/Pages/index.aspx.

Valuation of Contributions:

To determine the "fair market value" of an item take into consideration factors that are relevant to valuation including the item's age, condition, and quality. Acceptable methods in determining the value of a used item are: appraisal, thrift shop value, and comparable sales.

The Salvation Army (<https://satruck.org/Home/DonationValueGuide>) has valuation guidelines available. While this guideline does not provide ranges for valuation of pet supplies and products, it's a free resource available for you to get a general sense of how to go about determining fair market value.

Whenever you donate used items to a qualified charity you should always make and keep a detailed listing of the items donated with the condition and value of each set of items. The charity should provide you with a donation, acknowledgment, but, per IRS guidelines, determining fair market value is up to the donor. We recommend keeping photographs of the donated items in your tax files.

Unreimbursed Volunteer Expenses

Expenses incurred by a volunteer while furthering the mission of a charitable organization may be deductible. In the case of organizations focused on providing care for animals and rehousing them, this is great news for volunteers who foster animals requiring more attention in their homes.

Cleaning supplies and utilities are deductible to the extent that they are related to and are increased by volunteer activities. Expenses not directly connected to or solely attributable to the volunteer expenses may be limited or disallowed.

Vehicle Mileage

A volunteer for a charitable organization may take a deduction for the unreimbursed miles they put on their vehicle in connection to their volunteer work. This amount is equal to the total miles related to volunteer work multiplied by the charitable standard mileage rate of 14 cents per mile for 2016.

Things to Consider When Deducting Volunteer Expenses

In determining the deductibility of volunteer expenses, the tax authorities look at the following items:

1. The strength of the taxpayer's affiliation to the organization
2. The organization's ability to request services from the taxpayer
3. The organization's supervision of the taxpayer's work
4. Taxpayer accountability to the organization

It is important to note that services are not deductible. Meaning, if you are a veterinarian who normally bills by the hour, you may not claim the amount of time you spent volunteering as an expense. Only the amounts you may have spent on supplies or mileage would be allowed as a deduction.

Additionally, only unreimbursed expenses are deductible. If an organization reimburses you for your expenses, you will not be allowed a tax deduction.

Nagel & Padilla publishes a complimentary monthly newsletter featuring helpful tax and financial planning tips. Our website also offers a wide variety of resource guides on topics such as how to maximize the charitable deduction. You can subscribe to our newsletter and visit our website here: <http://nagelpadilla.com/index.php>, or you can follow us on Twitter (@NagelPadillaLLC) or like us on Facebook (Nagel & Padilla, LLC).

Hope, Trust, Love and a Forever Home

Over 50 dogs arrived at SoHumane on an August Saving Train run from California. Proceeds from the volunteer organized annual yard sale in June sponsored this rescue.

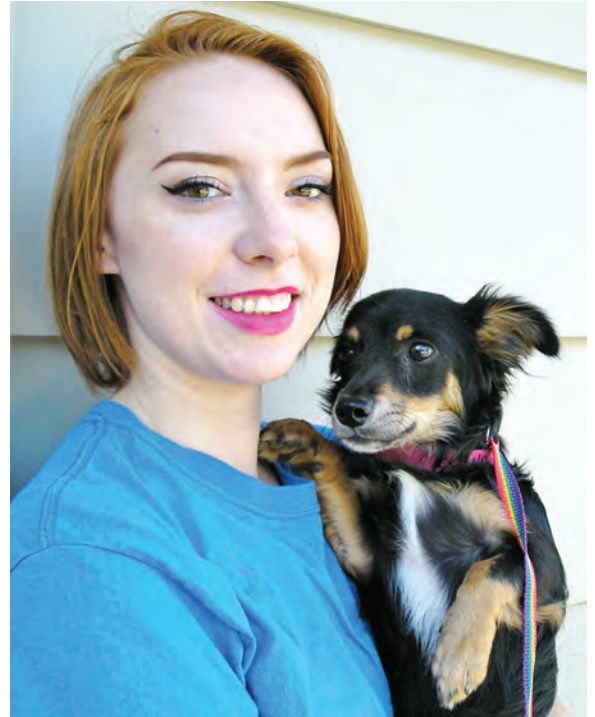

"When I first heard of the Saving Train, it deepened my belief in the commitment the Humane Society has to the animals, and made me even more enthused to support the organization in any way I can. There are a lot of great dogs out there, and the Saving Train makes it possible for them to find their forever home."

—Derek Shetterly

"The Saving Train creates another opportunity for hope, trust, love and a forever home, to many deserving dogs. They all deserve a second chance! I am so happy and proud to say I volunteer at SoHumane."

Rhiannon's Fund

Karen Evans

When their beloved Corgi, Rhiannon, died unexpectedly of cancer, Matt Messner and Neil Sechan wanted to find a way to honor and remember the love she gave during her nine short years with them. With an initial donation of $5,000, Matt and Neil asked SoHumane to set up an ongoing fund to treat animals transferred from shelters where they were facing euthanasia because of lack of funds for medical care.

Here is a story about a special dog named Truman. We found Truman in a shelter in California where he was suffering with a badly broken leg. Thanks to Rhiannon's fund and our Saving Train, we were able to say, "Yes!" when the shelter staff asked us if we could help Truman. He came to SoHumane where he received the medical care he needed. Unfortunately, his injury was so severe that his leg could not be saved, but he bounced right back after the surgery and was adopted into a wonderful home!

Our goal is to grow Rhiannon's fund into a self-sustaining endowment to medically benefit animals in need of special medical care. Please help us achieve this wonderful dream by donating to Rhiannon's fund and help us say, "Yes!" to more animals like Truman who need your help.

Gunther Received a Second Chance

No one looked at Gunther. For 45 days, people walked past his kennel in California. Gunther had a cleft palate and a hair lip. He was scheduled for euthanasia. Because SoHumane supporters give generously to care for animals with special medical needs, Gunther had surgery to repair his palate and suture his nose. Gunther's adoptive family wrote recently, saying:

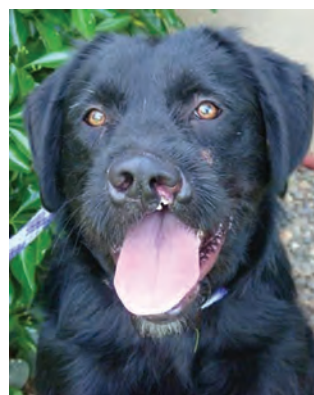

Dear SOHS,

Do you folks remember a dog named "Gunther?" He had a cleft palate. We got him on May 3, 2015. We wanted to send you an update. We did change his name to "Pappy". He is doing really well, and we love him dearly. Pappy loves to chase & fetch the ball, Frisbee, and loves a good belly rub. He's very loving.

Thanks so much for all that you folks do.

—Sincerely, D & B Williams

Save the life of a dog with special medical needs by designating your donation to Rhiannon's Fund. Gunther has a home and a family because you care.

I was contacted today about Ringo, whom I adopted a couple of weeks ago. He is doing great and loves his forever home.

Robert

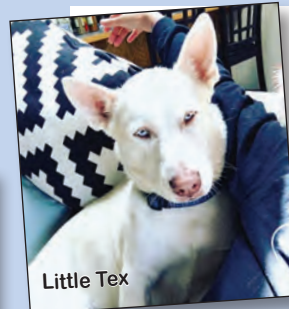

Sammi

Here is our Sammi... We adopted her from SoHumane 4 years ago and it was one of the best decisions ever. She is the sweetest, most loving dog and the best snuggler ever. Thank you SoHumane for helping us find her and for bringing her into our lives!

Emily

Little Tex

Little Tex (aka Hewie) is the most spoiled brat ever. He sleeps in the bed and takes up more than half. He jumps in rivers and cries when we have to go home. And he is an AMAZING guard dog for our home. So glad we got the opportunity to adopt this little fella!

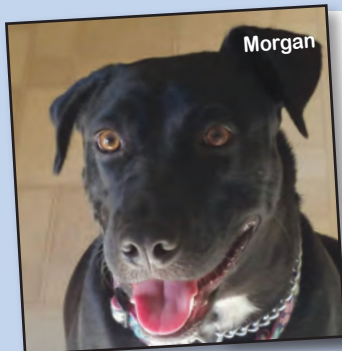

Kellie

Remmy

We took Pikka home yesterday. We renamed him Remmy and he is already fitting in perfectly with our little family. He is such a lover.

Renee

Morgan

This is Morgan. We got Morgan in Jan. 2016 from the Southern Oregon Humane Society. I wanted you to see how happy she is. She has brought us and her buddy Forest so much joy. Thank you.

Kathy

Jessie

Thank you so much for our wonderful pup. She and my son are already the best of friends. You guys knew her as Adela but we changed her name to Jessie. She is a wonderful addition to our family. Thank you!

Kimberly

Parker

This is Parker, a Vizsla mix we adopted in January. He has become a loyal, caring, fun-loving part of our family and a new best friend for our daughter. He loves chew toys, chasing tennis balls, hiking (especially in the snow), and going everywhere that we go. He is also a smart dog and was easy to train. He knows sit, stay, lie down, fetch, kennel, load up, leave it, go on your bed, and fetch. We also taught him to stay off the furniture, not to jump, and not to go in the bedrooms in just a few days after coming home. We are so glad we chose to adopt from Southern Oregon Humane Society!

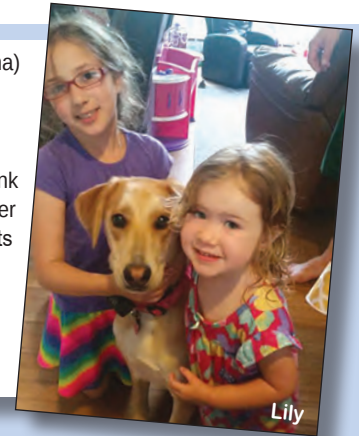

Myles

Hi there, I used to be Reeses. I was adopted about 5 years ago and I just wanted you to know that life is goooooo ! I get to go the beach every weekend and run my legs off. My favorite toy is my orange smooth "chuck-it" ball. I always know exactly where I leave it! Mom and Dad are good to me but I am kind of shy with other humans. Everyone seems to understand. Oh and mom says I'm really handsome! Thank you so much for caring for me when I was still a young dog.

Lily

Today we celebrated Lily's (Cana) first anniversary as a family member. She has been the perfect pup for us, and we have you and the Saving Train to thank for bringing her into our lives. Her fur is on our floor, her nose prints on our windows, and her paws forever in our hearts. We are rescued for life.

Tonya

Lenny

It's been a while since we've given an update. Lenny (Luke) has been a part of our family since November 2012. I wouldn't have it any other way. He is such a love bug who has developed a taste for the strawberries in our garden! Here he is enjoying his new travel bed.

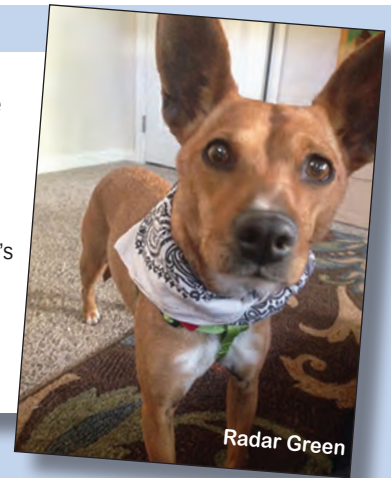

The longer he is with us, the more he comes out of his shell. He isn't so frightened of every little sound, and even enjoys a romp around the living room with our 14-year-old cat. He is very sociable, and knows when I get home late from work.

No matter what kind of day I've had at the office, it's better at home because of Lenny. Thank you SOHS for being there for him and giving me the opportunity to add more love to my home.

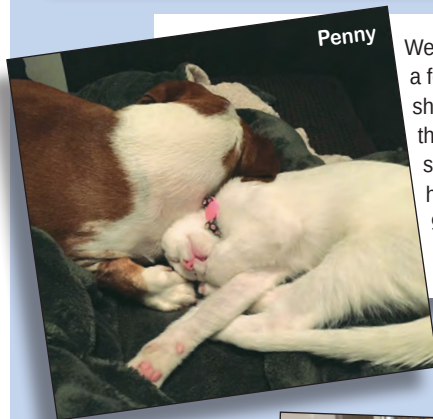

Christa

Radar Green is a happy lil' camper in her new home! She loves going to the dog park and relaxing in her cozy bed while we watch Netflix. She's still a little shy, but her sweet charm can win any heart. She's adjusting SO well and I'm so thankful that she's part of my little family!

Isaac and Taylor

Just wanting to give you all an update on the kittens we adopted a week and a half ago.

We adopted Isaac and Taylor.

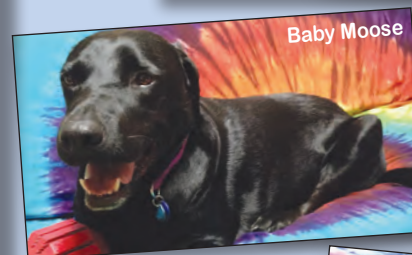

We were worried about Isaac being timid and anxious. After wandering around the house for a few hours it was obvious that he has claimed this house. He's still a little standoffish, but I have a feeling that's how he is and that is okay.

Taylor has been a bundle of atomic energy. Oh my word, can that cat race and tear up and down the hallway. It's absolutely wonderful to have this much energy in the house.

They have both discovered and love the cat tree we got them. Also got them a couple of large stuffed mice to play with, and they also carry them around the house. We are so very happy to have them in our lives. It is a godsend.

Thank you so much for watching over them until we came along.

I just wanted to thank you all so much for letting us adopt our new fur baby! She is such a great dog and is happily adjusting to her new home! She has shown us so much love, affection and loyalty! No mishaps yet in the house and is already showing her dedication to me! We are practicing the no leash when going potty and she has successfully showed me that I can trust her! She is such a lover!

Hello everyone,

I'm so happy to report that Corki has moved into our lives and hearts so easily. We are so totally in love with him. Our great granddaughters came for a visit and he is such an amazing dog with them. He was quite a sick boy for the first week that we had him with pneumonia but after visits to the emergency pet hospital and subsequently our vet, he is a healthy, happy boy! He is more than we could have ever hoped for.

—Thank you, Susan & Jim

Sterling and Draper

Michaela writes:

We recently adopted Sterling and Draper. I've known many kittens in my lifetime and these are the sweetest, most social, and best-behaved kitties I've met yet. Please pass my thanks to whoever fostered them! These boys snuggle the whole family, never run and hide, sleep through the night, use their litter box, scratch on their post, and play with the kids. They have quickly become a very special part of our family. We paid more for S.O. Humane kitties, but without regret because they are totally worth it. Thank you so much!

Hello there,

Just thought I would give you guys an update on Sylvia now known as Tilly. She is doing great, fitting right in with the family. She is just a joy to be around.

In the month that we have had her she has gotten to see the ocean, go camping up in Applegate and has made some new friends.

Everyone who meets her falls in love and how could you not! She gets a greenie just about every day and we are working on getting her used to having her teeth brushed. We just love her so much and are so happy to have her in our lives, thank you all so much!

Thank You!

Experience Joy. Adopt a Senior Cat.

Leela

Buddy

Don't let age be a barrier to adoption when choosing your new cat companion. If you spend time with an adult cat, you will learn if it is active or calm, a lap cat or an acrobat, one who purrs, cuddles or wants to talk. Mature cats have filled in – their coats are full, their eyes radiate expressive colors, their body shapes are defined. Older cats can thrive in active households. They enjoy the daily routine of rousing their family in the morning, catching a snooze in the still warm bed, monitoring the bathroom rituals, checking the kitchen counters after the family has headed for school or work, following the sun across the living room, hiding small toys under the furniture, settling in for TV time, and finally, choosing the most comfortable bed at night.

Experience years of contented pussy cat conversations and whisker kisses.

Adopt a senior cat. Provide a second chance!

Mission Statement

To improve the lives of pets and people through sustainable programs of education, adoptions, and spay/neutering.
